

The second president said that he would ban fast food in his country and improve high schools.

